

A Record of Delivery	A Promise of More
Scrapped ID cards and blocked the so-called Snooper's Charter that would have monitored everyone's internet use	Protect your privacy by updating data laws for the internet age with a Digital Bill of Rights
Freedoms Act to cut intrusive CCTV, stop fingerprinting children in schools and stop aggressive wheel clamping	A second Freedoms Act to protect free speech, stop heavy-handed policing and ban Mosquito devices that discriminate against young people.
Introduced equal marriage for gay and lesbian couples	Combat homophobic bullying and discrimination, including in schools
Reduced the gender pay gap and increased the number of women on boards	Support a million more women who want to work with better childcare, help with caring responsibilities and action against discrimination
Stopped locking up children of asylum seekers and strengthened rules on police stop and search	Fight discrimination in the criminal justice system and recruit more Black, Asian and Minority Ethnic police officers

8.1 Equality and diversity

A fair society should treat its citizens equally and with dignity. In this Parliament, thanks to Liberal Democrats in government, there have been key advances in the fight for equality – like introducing same-sex marriage and banning age discrimination. But we must continue our work to fight prejudice and discrimination based on race, age, religion or belief, gender, sexuality, and disability. We will enact the remaining unimplemented clauses of the Equality Act 2010.